

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and implementation for network communication is disclosed where one or more network access points are provided for communicating with a plurality of clients over a plurality of carriers. An arrangement is provided for monitoring on or more dedicated carriers for new clients seeking to associate with the network. The new client is detected over the carrier or carriers and the new client is then associated to the network over the carrier or carriers.

576001.1A
72255/05858

FOUO "SECRET"